

DID YOU KNOW??

March 2016

OSHA reports that temporary workers are more vulnerable to workplace safety and health hazards than workers in more traditional employment relationships. As a result OSHA recommends staffing services (that's us) and host employers (that's you) work together as "PARTNERS" in keeping temporary workers safe and healthy.

We are pleased to report that we have an unusually low number of accidents and this past year our lowest number of lost days since 2002. Thank you to our clients for providing safe work environments.

Here is what we do at Reitman to assure a safe work environment for our temp employees:

Our temps sign a Performance, Conduct, and Safety Agreement that is customized to each clients work environment. Call or email us to see or further customize this agreement to meet your safety program.

All our temps view a job specific safety video before assignment (Safe Office video, Heavy Lifting video or Machine Safety video).

We ask our temps to report any safety concerns they have to their job site supervisor and recruiter.

We have a Reitman Safety Committee that reviews all accidents and works to assure the safety of our employees.

Your company is responsible for.....

- Providing all job specific safety training and supervision.
- Promptly reporting all accidents and near misses to us.
- Communicate all relevant safety information including unusual risks to us.
- Record all temp accidents on your OSHA log.

THANK YOU FOR PROTECTING THE SAFETY OF OUR EMPLOYEES! Please call or email Howard Reitman (howard@reitmanpersonnel.com) with any comments or questions or for a copy of our Client's Procedure for Injured Worker.
